TRASH TO TREASURE GUIDE

WASHTENAW COUNTY SOLID WASTE DIVISION

UPDATED 2021

INTRODUCTION

You've likely heard the phrase, "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle." This is the approach we should take towards consumption and disposal of materials. However, applying this phrase for everything we encounter can be confusing, unclear, or outright inconvenient. What do you do with those old records or that toaster oven that you don't need anymore? What about that expired car battery and the carpet scraps out in the garage? Your old cell phones? This document is not only designed to answer these tricky questions and to help keep your reusable and recyclable materials out of the landfill, but it will also help you start thinking about the value of your objects and purchasing decisions. Can your objects be repaired instead of thrown away? If something is no longer useful to you, is it truly considered trash? Can you buy things that are useful to you without harming the environment?

Here you will find creative tips on how to reduce your waste. You will also find a directory of facilities that will repair, reuse, or recycle many of your household items. You'll see how one person's trash may be a valuable resource to someone else. By working together, we can turn our trash into treasure.

ALTERNATIVES TO NEW MATERIALS

This section offers guidance on accessing items that are not new. Buying brand new items requires resources extraction, typically fossil fuels, excess water and energy use, unregulated labor practices, greenhouse gas emissions from transportation, and a higher upfront cost to the consumer. Additionally, these materials eventually need a place to go, and that is often the landfill where they will emit more greenhouse gasses, take thousands of years to degrade, or leach toxins in our soils and watersheds. Unfortunately, buying new goods is directly tied to environmental degradation; however, we can obtain items still necessary to us in a way that minimizes environmental impact: finding alternatives to new materials through equipment rentals, thrift operations, and online second-hand resources.

EQUIPMENT RENTAL

Many items we use are only needed occasionally, such as lawn and garden equipment, carpet steamers, power tools, etc. Renting is a great option when working on projects that require specific equipment yet do not require the item long-term. By renting equipment, you are likely saving money and ensuring that you are minimizing the resources it takes to construct new materials. Many services offered in Washtenaw County make renting a cost-effective alternative to buying the items brand new. Another strategy is to encourage tool and equipment sharing in your neighborhood. A great example is the SnowBuddy non-profit, located right in Ann Arbor. Neighbors of the Water Hill neighborhood collectively purchased a commercial snowblower and use volunteers to clear their sidewalks in the winter.

THRIFT & CONSIGNMENT OPERATIONS

Thrift stores are a more cost-effective and sustainable alternative to buying new. You can find an array of items at these stores in good or like-new condition. Often, thrift stores prices are lower than new, and purchasing gently used items reduces the need to manufacture more goods. Thrifting also means reducing textile and plastic waste from reaching the landfill, and a reduction in material goods manufacturing allows for less pollution emitted in the manufacturing process. Additionally, many of the thrift operations in Washtenaw County support various social causes in the community.

ONLINE RESOURCES

Shopping second-hand online can be useful in several ways. Sometimes there are specific items that you are seeking out, but you cannot find it at a thrift store. In this case, you can search some of the resources below. Other times, online resources can be useful to browse for inspiration. Online resources can also expand your ability to sell used items to a broader audience or company.

eBay

Great alternative to buying from Amazon. Most searches can be specified to only show items in the "Used" or "Open box" condition. Be sure to check the reviews of any seller you may buy from.

ebay.com/

Facebook Groups

Check out your local 'yard sale' group by typing "Name of your town Buy Sell Trade." Another great resource is your local Buy Nothing group. Buy Nothing is designed to create a local gift economy and to foster relationships with those nearby – plus, everything is given at no cost.

buynothingproject.org/about/

Facebook Marketplace

Facebook Marketplace is another alternative to Amazon, and it is helpful in finding something you need from someone nearby.

facebook.com/marketplace

freecycle

freecycle is a non-profit that provides members a location to give or request items for free. You must become a member to post or respond to posts. There are freecycle groups for specific locations.

Patagonia Worn Wear

Worn Wear is an extension of Patagonia's retail operation that sells exclusively used Patagonia merchandise in addition to offering trade-in credit for used Patagonia pieces.

wornwear.patagonia.com/

Poshmark

Poshmark is a platform for individuals or "shops" to selling mostly fashion items. Search results can be specified to "Used." Poshmark is a great platform for finding specific branded fashion items second-hand.

poshmark.com/

ThredUP

ThredUP is an online consignment and thrift store. It functions like a regular online clothing store, but the items are second-hand. ThredUP also buys used clothing.

thredup.com/

MAIL-IN RECYCLING PROGRAMS

Sometimes there are things we wish to recycle, but there are not local options to do so. There are several mail-in recycling programs in which individuals across the country can participate in. Always check the manufacturer of items you are trying to recycle. Often, manufacturers will have recycling programs for their products. For electronics, manufacturers are required by law required to offer free and convenient recycling options to Michigan residents. They often fill this obligation by offering free mail-back programs to their customers. You can find the list of electronics manufacturer programs at Michigan.gov/EGLewaste.

Cartridges for Kids

Cartridges for Kids is a free service that pays for recyclables. These include cell phones, laser & inkjet cartridges, toner, laptops, MP3s, iPads & iPods, and tablets. They provide free shipping labels.

Automobiles

Repairing and using your car for as long as possible is very important. In place of purchasing new parts for repair, consider buying used parts. It is extremely energy and resource intensive to create new automobiles, so prolonging to life of yours is environmentally preferred. Even better, consider carpooling or utilizing public transit in order to reduce the usage of your vehicle and to reduce your carbon footprint.

REPAIR

Town and Country Auto Parts
Offers used auto parts for all makes and models of foreign and domestic models.

BUILDING MATERIALS

General Building Materials

Leftover materials from a building project can be saved for future home improvement projects. If your materials are still usable but unwanted, consider donating them so that others can reuse them. Before anything else, consider making repairs to your existing materials. Cabinets are a great example of something that can easily be transformed with a coat of paint and new hardware. If you do not want to pay for a professional, consider tackling a DIY project to be more sustainable and to save money!

REPAIR

Paint

Oil based paints and paint thinners contain solvents that are flammable and evaporate quickly, creating fumes that you breathe. Many paints contain heavy metals such as cadmium and oil paints can contain lead. These materials can pose grave threats to human health if disposed of improperly. As for latex paint, it is only hazardous in its liquid form, once dried out with saw dust, newspaper or by alternative means it is safe to be disposed of in normal trash which goes to the landfill. Latex paint can be reused if it has never been frozen, so try giving it away before disposing of it if it is in good condition.

REUSE

Washtenaw County Home Toxics Center

Accepts latex paint less than 8 years old that is in good condition and has never been frozen.

CLOTHING & TEXTILES

Clothing & Shoes

Clothing you no longer need can be sold or donated. Try repairing your clothing before getting rid of it. When making clothing donations, remember that clothing should be clean, items that go together such as shoes, socks and belts should be tied or pinned together, and many places that accept clothing are short on space, so donate clothing appropriate to the season. Clothing with holes or stains can be used as rags for cleaning or projects.

ELECTRONICS

Many electronic items are repairable and reusable. Even if you upgrade your items, someone would probably be more than happy to take your old equipment. Try selling your used equipment or take it to an organization for donation. If your equipment is not in working order, recycle it! Depending on the item, check with the manufacturer you purchased it from, as they may have a take-back program.

Cell Phones

Cell phone manufacturers make new models of phones almost each year. The creation of new models does not degrade from the quality of your older phone. The mining of precious metals used in electronics can be unethical and unsustainable, so consider keeping your phone until the end of its usability or getting it repaired when it breaks. Phones in working condition can be donated to organizations that refurbish and redistribute them. Parts and batteries from unusable phones can also be recycled.

HAZARDOUS MATERIALS

Asbestos

Asbestos can be a very hazardous material and should not be disposed of with your regular trash. The fibers are fire resistant, very strong, and not easily destroyed or degraded by natural processes. Removing asbestos from your home is difficult and potentially dangerous, requiring protective gear including a respirator.

Household Hazardous Waste

Many products in your home are considered toxic and require special disposal procedures, some of which may surprise you. Washtenaw County offers household hazardous waste collection at the Home Toxic Center which allows for a safe, convenient, and free collection. This program aims to divert toxic household materials from the landfill to prevent groundwater contamination and harm to animals or trash handlers. The Home Toxics Center is open for appointments and walk-ins Monday - Friday from 9:30 AM - 4:15 PM. Additionally, from April - November, there are Saturday collection events during the first three Saturdays of each month from 9 AM - 12 PM. No appointments are necessary for these events, nor is there is a volume limit. For questions about collection events or acceptable or unacceptable materials, please call (734) 222-3950.

Utensils & Kitchenware

Kitchenware is often worn down after continued use, so consider repairing it yourself! Check out several DIY guides via iFixit. If you are missing a piece to a set, or a part of your kitchenware is scratched or worn down, see if it can be replaced. Instead of tossing the whole piece, search online for replacement parts! For items you no longer need, many kitchen items such as dishes, pots, pans, and utensils are in high demand. Consider donating or pass them on to a college student, friend, family, or neighbor. If your kitchenware is unusable or unable to be repaired, it may be able to be recycled depending on the material.

Medication

Increasing amounts of drugs are showing up in surrounding watersheds. When unused medications are disposed of down the drain, local waterways become contaminated as local treatment facilities are unable to filter medication. The long-term exposure our local ecology is unknown yet likely harmful. For this reason, it is important to dispose of unneeded medications through a take-back program. Visit the Medication Disposal county web page for more information.

MEDICATION DISPOSAL NETWORK

Washtenaw County's Medication Disposal Network is an informational resource for Washtenaw County residents on where to take their expired and unwanted medications and medical sharps for free and proper disposal. Visit the Washtenaw County website to see the list of participating pharmacies in the network. Not all controlled, scheduled drugs, or sharps can be accepted at these locations.

BIG RED BARREL PROGRAM

The "Big Red Barrel" program is a partnership with local law enforcement agencies where people can dispose of prescription or over-the-counter pills, including controlled substances like OxyContin, Vicodin, and Percocet at no cost. Visit the Washtenaw County website to see the list of Big Red Barrel locations in the county.

Sharps

Sharps is a broad term used to describe syringes with attached needles and lancets. When disposed of in the regular trash, these items pose threats to sanitation and recycling workers. Over 7 million sharps are used in homes and discarded in Washtenaw County annually. The best way to reduce the danger of sharps is to take them to a sharps collection center. Several pharmacies within Washtenaw County and the Washtenaw County Home Toxics Center have agreed to serve as depots for used sharps. Visit the Washtenaw County website to see a list of participating pharmacies.

ALL SHARPS MUST BE IN AN APPROVED CONTAINER

Generally, these are yellow, red, or orange containers made from hard, thick plastic with a sealable, locking lid on the top.

MISCELLANEOUS

Books

Consider trading books and magazines with friends. If you are interested in paperbacks or best sellers, find a book trading club to join. Getting a library card will also allow you to check out books and return them at your own leisure. Your older or vintage books may be worth money, so consider selling them instead of tossing!

REUSE

Ann Arbor Thrift Shop

YARD & ORGANIC WASTE

Compost

Saving food scraps and organic waste for composting is very important. Organic matter thrown away and trapped in landfills leads to the creation of a very potent greenhouse gas, methane, which contributes to global climate change. Compost can improve soil structure, texture, aeration, water retention and restore natural nutrients all while reducing methane emissions. You can become a Washtenaw County certified composter through the Master Composter class offered by the county, Project Grow, and Ann Arbor Public Schools Recreation and Education Program. If it is not possible to compost where you live, consider bringing it to a composting facility.

Recycle Ann Arbor Drop-Off Station

Accepts compost for a price of $22 per cubic yard or $2.50 per bushel.

Ypsilanti Township Compost Site

Offers drop off service for 2 cubic yards of organic waste for residents of Ypsilanti Township. Beyond 2 cubic yards, compost drop off is $8/yd. All residents of other townships are charged $12/yd. Proof of single-family home residency required.

WeCare Denali

The composting facility for the city of Ann Arbor. Compost carts can be acquired through the city, but city households are also welcomed to drop off 1 cubic yard of organic waste per day at the facility at no cost. Proof of Ann Arbor residency required.

Yard Waste

Fallen leaves, grass clippings, pruning and trimmings comprise around 25% of the waste generated by an average household. Yard waste is not really a waste at all, but a valuable resource. Michigan state law prohibits yard waste from being disposed of in landfills or incinerators and requires more environmentally-sound handling. Composting is a natural decomposition process that transforms yard waste into humus, a valuable soil amendment.

CURBSIDE YARD WASTE COLLECTION PROGRAMS

Most programs offer collection April - November, but specific programs may vary. Call your community for information.
